

Building for the Harvest: Designing for Discipleship Update

After thinking, praying, and discussing alternatives, the leadership has decided on a plan that moves us farther along in our original master plan. It meets many of the needs we have, all within the 4.5 million dollar limit we believe we can handle.

Rather than a new design plan, we are choosing to construct the ground floor of the previously proposed plan, with structures in place for second floor construction and renovation in the future. It will at least six additional classrooms, a multi-purpose space, a new kitchen, and a place for our university ministry. You can see the adjoining diagram which presents the tentative plans.

Currently, the architects are completing the schematic design phase and are moving into the next phases of planning. If things go well, we could see construction begin as early as the end of 2008 or the beginning of 2009.

Thank you for your support, prayers, and ongoing contributions to the work of God's Kingdom!
